

Bridges Prep News & Notes: April 12, 2019

From Dr. Herbst's desk ...

Our proud military family students! At Bridges, we have a number of students from active duty military families. To support them, we participate in the LINKS program.

LINKS stands for Lifestyle, Insights, Networking, Knowledge, and Skills. The Marine Corps Air Station Beaufort worked with the students celebrating their resiliency, and gave them tools to help them through tough times. The students walked away with some cool prizes too! We will have other LINKS programs for the rest of our Bridges students in active military families through May 1.

Egg Drop Challenge: The fourth grade students have been working on a large STEM project that came to an “EGG-citing” end this past week. Each student created a carrying device that would transport a raw egg safely to the ground from a higher altitude. The students had to think of what might cushion the fall to earth, what might decrease the speed of the fall, and what might keep the egg secure. Creativity, as well as a knowledge of physics and packaging, came in handy.

We had some good ideas from these young engineers! Thanks to the City of Beaufort/Town of Port Royal Fire Department for bringing out the bucket truck to help us drop our projects from an elevated perch!

Welcome to Spring Break! See you back on Monday, April 22! Have fun, relax, read a book and come back ready!
