The Embedded Master of Arts in Teaching Residency Program

The City School District of Albany is looking forward to the fourth year of its partnership with NYU Steinhardt to help prepare new teachers using an innovative residency model. Immersed in the classroom in one of our secondary schools for a full academic year, you will gradually take on more responsibility, providing you an opportunity to connect learning theory with practice and build confidence in your teaching.

By leveraging a technology-enhanced learning model you will be paid to work full-time in our district while completing online courses taught in the evenings by world-renowned NYU faculty. Every week you will engage in deep discussion in a supportive learning community with content experts and fellow resident interns during live video meetings.
