Are you concerned that your child was having difficulty in math and/or reading this year? Is your child making progress in math and/or reading now, but you are concerned that without consistent practice during those long summer months, skills could become “rusty”? Research has shown that students, who do not continue to read, write and do math over the summer months, lose much of their newly acquired skills. To lay the best foundation for your child’s “jump” to second grade, take advantage of signing up for this class. All “big five” areas of reading instruction will be addressed – phonemic awareness, phonics, fluency, vocabulary, and comprehension using exciting themes that children enjoy such as dinosaurs, ocean life and the planets. Reader's theatre is an exciting way for your child to perform scripts out loud! There is no need for memorization because they are holding their scripts the entire time (even during the performance). Reader's theatre enhances fluency, expression, and builds confidence all at the same time. Re-reading is the key to knowing the script well enough to expand on oral expression. Not only will your child get a part in the play, but they will also be able to create their own sets, props, costumes, and at the end of the three weeks, perform for you! They are "not just reading the script, they are living it!"

Reader's Theater involves children in oral reading through reading parts in scripts. Unlike traditional theatre, the emphasis is mainly on oral expression of the part. Reader's Theater is "theatre of the imagination". It involves children in understanding their world, creating their own scripts, reading aloud, performing with a purpose, and bringing enjoyment to both themselves and their audiences. Reader's Theater gives children a purpose for writing, for reading, and for sharing their learning by bringing others into the joyful "imagination space" they create. Reader's Theater "succeeds in giving the same suggestive push to the imaginations in the audience that the act of silent reading gives to the imagination of the perceptive silent reader". It is a simple, effective and risk-free way to get children to enjoy reading. As children write, read, perform and interpret their roles they acquire a better understanding of the literature.
