Allright Jewelry

Allright...It's a state-of-mind, a place, and it's also my jewelry. In the 1920's, my mother and her five siblings grew up in the tiny rural farming community of Allright, Clark County, Illinois. My grandparents operated the Allright Store, a general merchandise store where people came to get the necessities of life, gather for entertainment, and socialize. Today, the community of Allright may only be a small dot/area on some maps as the Store, the Allright Church, and my grandparents' home are nothing more than a memory. But the stories of hard work and music played, treasured family recipes, and a sense of shared community bonds remain. To this day, the rural roads and farmland in and around Allright are still populated with several generations of those original inhabitants who are proud to say they are from Allright.

After retiring from 33 years of service as a rural mail carrier in Clark County, I took up the hobby of making costume jewelry. In looking through my mother's old hat boxes, jewelry cases, and endless stacks of pictures, I stumbled upon a treasure of vintage gems, unknown bits, and odds and ends. Many of these pieces have been re-purposed, in combination with natural materials, in my jewelry. Unexpected finds at vintage/antique stores on my travels makes for interesting creations. I hope you enjoy your piece from Allright Jewelry.

doTERRA[®]
pursue what's pure

www.mydoterra.com/suecypher1

What Makes doTERRA Different?
When you use a bottle of doTERRA essential oil, you're using an oil that is pure. There are no contaminants, fillers, or adulterations. The essential oil industry did not have standards to ensure purity, so doTERRA created one.
